What support is available for carers: Carer Gateway and the National Dementia Support Program

If you have someone providing you with regular and ongoing care and help - without being paid - then they are a carer. And they can get help and support from the government and other organisations.

Carer Gateway provides in-person, phone, and online services and support nationally to help them in their caring role.

- You can call 1800 422 737, Monday to Friday, between 8am and 5pm, and select option 1 to speak to your local Carer Gateway service provider. They will talk with your carer to understand their needs and provide support and services to assist them in their caring role.

- For access to practical information, advice, resources and online support services, visit the Carer Gateway website at carergateway.gov.au

Additionally, if they're caring for you because you're experiencing cognitive decline or have been diagnosed with dementia, the National Dementia Support Program is available to help.

- The National Dementia Support Program, delivered by Dementia Australia, provides a range of in-person, phone-based, and online services including counselling, information, and supports to help them in their caring role.
- Dementia Australia can be contacted on 1800 100 500, Monday to Friday, between 8am and 8pm, or online at dementia.org.au

You and your carer can also visit the My Aged Care website for more resources, services and support groups at myagedcare.gov.au/caring-someone

What happens at the assessment?

With your consent, a trained assessor will come to your home. They will assess your care needs and eligibility for services.

If you are eligible for subsidised aged care, the assessor will work with you to develop a support plan which addresses your care needs, goals and service preferences.

Someone else can be with you as your support person at this assessment visit. If you have a carer, you may wish to consider whether they attend the assessment with you as your support person. You can also ask the assessor about having an Auslan or in-language interpreter.

You should have:

- ID for you and anyone you want to be a representative and talk on your behalf: Medicare card and one other form of ID - such as DVA card, driver's licence, healthcare card, or passport
- any information you already have about aged care services that you may want to discuss
- information on any support you receive.

What happens after the assessment?

After the assessment, you will find out if you are eligible for subsidised aged care services and which type.

Then you need to:

- choose services: the 'Find a provider' tool on the website can help you locate and compare services. Your assessor and My Aged Care can also help.
- find out about costs: the 'Fee estimator' tool on the website can give you information about costs. You may need a financial assessment.
